The Awesome Foundation's Food Chapter $1,000 microgrants

The Awesome Foundation's Food chapter is now taking applications for its $1,000 microgrants to further food awesomeness in the universe. Apply at awesomefoundation.org/apply and submit under "Food" category. Every month, one microgrant will be given for an awesome idea involving food, be it urban farming, food truck, recipe collects, pop-up cafes, or health. The more inventive the better.

The application is very simple, mainly consisting of two essay questions: "Describe yourself, your project, and how you'll pull it off" and "How would you use the money?"

To see some of the projects they've funded or to apply check out their blog: <http://www.awesomefood.net/blog/>

Food Family Farming Healthy Breakfast 4 Kids grant program foodfamilyfarming.org

Application deadline for the Healthy Breakfast 4 Kids grant program has been extended to September 2012.

What a great way to incorporate local food items into the classroom setting!

The Healthy Breakfast-4-Kids (HB4K) goal is to create and improve access to breakfast in schools nationwide as a means to lessen the huge negative impact of hungry children across our nation. In 2012 Food Family Farming Foundation (F3) and Walmart Foundation are partnering to grant 117 $2500 equipment grants to high needs schools for the purpose of assisting in the successful establishment of universal breakfast in the classroom programs. Grant awardees will be able to order $2500 worth of food service smallwares or equipment to help support implementing breakfast in the classroom via an online order with our partner Tundra Specialties. As part of the grant program, F3 will create universal breakfast implementation resources to be available to all schools via our program, The Lunch Box.

For more information go to their website or check out the attached handout about the grant program.
